In a little district west of Washington Square the streets have run crazy and broken themselves into small strips called "places." These "places" make strange angles and curves. One Street crosses itself a time or two. An artist once discovered a valuable possibility in this street. Suppose a collector with a bill for paints, paper and canvas should, in traversing this route, suddenly meet himself coming back, without a cent having been paid on account!

So, to quaint old Greenwich Village the art people soon came prowling, hunting for north windows and eighteenth-century gables and Dutch attics and low rents. Then they imported some pewter mugs and a chafing dish or two from Sixth Avenue, and became a "colony."

At the top of a squatty, three-story brick Sue and Johnsy had their studio. "Johnsy" was familiar for Joanna. One was from Maine; the other from California. They had met at the table d'hôte of an Eighth Street "Delmonico's," and found their tastes in art, chicory salad and bishop sleeves so congenial that the joint studio resulted.

Task 2. Complete the gaps in the sentences. Write one word only in each gap.

The story focuses on two female artists. The women are named Sue and Joanna, who is known 1 [ ] 'Johsy'. They live in Greenwich Village in New York among a 'colony' of artists 2 [ ] reside in the area. One particularly cold winter, Johnsy falls 3 [ ] with pneumonia and it looks likely she will die of the disease. The doctor takes Sue to one side and tells her that Johnsy has perhaps a ten per cent chance of surviving, but what she needs is something 4 [ ] living for that will give her strength to rally and recover. Johnsy herself believes that she will perish when the last leaf of the year falls 5 [ ] the ivy vine outside her window. She 6 [ ] resigned herself to dying, much to the frustration of Sue, who is trying to help her friend. Sue and Johnsy live in the top apartment of the house. On the ground 7 [ ], Behrman, a male artist in his sixties lives. He has a beard like Moses in Michelangelo's famous sculpture. He is always talking about being on the 8 [ ] of producing his 'masterpiece', but has never yet done so. He is, in short, a failed artist.
